Garden Talk

By Appomattox Garden Club

Let's talk about lilacs today. Together with the blossoms or hyacinths, daffodils, crocus, tulips and iris, lilacs make spring the fragrant, glorious season of promise One of my favorite quotations is this one—

"If winter come, can spring be far behind?"

When you plan to plant lilacs, study the catalogues thoroughly. Order only those lilacs guaranteed to be on their own roots or grafted on privet under-stock. Make sure from your dealer before you place your order.

Let's list in order some points to remember:

1. Plant lilacs as early as the soil can be worked. If they are planted too late, the leaves are likely tobe dwarfed the first year, and the bush cannot make normal growth. Planting in late fall is recommended as far north as Boston.

2. Space lilacs five feet apart in a neutral or limy soil, in a positioon where they will get sun for at least 6 hours a day. Pulverize the soil a spade's full depth; spread the roots widely. Lilacs make a mat of roots, all quite close to the surface.

3. Cover roots with clean topsoil when planting. Then finish off with soil into which you have worked a balanced plant food, moderately fresh manure, or a cup of superphosphate.

4. Protect bark from injury when handling new plants and after they are planted. Cut sod back from the stems so they are not likely to get hit by the lawn mower.

5. Water lilacs heavily before blooming time unless the season is extremely wet.

6. Mulch area over roots. A loose mulch helps the soil take in water more freely, does away with the need for hand-trimming of grass.

7. Watch for signs of special lilac pests—stem borers and sucking pests known as scale. Stem borers make tiny holes in main stems but leave tell-tale sawdust behind.. Scale gather thickly, along new growth, causing distortion, and can be easily seen. Dusting lilacs with DDT powder will help cut borer damage. Probe any borer holes you find with a fine wire. Or inject 5 to 7 drops of carbon disulphide in each hole with a dropper; then plug the hole at once with gum, wax, or wet soil.

If scale is found in June, spray all upper foliage with light miscible oil sold for this purpose and mixed according to directions for a summer spray. Do not exceed the amounts recommended. For a bad infestation, spray again after leaves have dropped, with an oil emulsion mixed to proportions for a dormant spray.

Weather conditions facilitate the spread of mildew which sometimes disfigures lilac foliage in late summer. Though disfiguring. it is not dangerous to health of the lilacs.

8. Prune intelligently. Cropping ends only reduces bloom. If bush is too tall for space, cut out older branches near the ground level. Use a key-hole saw, or some other small saw, to avoid any injury to bark of remaining stems.

Nip off the seeds as soon as bloom is over, but be careful not to injure the closest pair of leafy branches. These will furnish the blooms for next year.

Plant lilacs this fall and enjoy them as long as you live.

Memorial Fund Proposals Are Adopted

The following proposals by the Board of Directors were unanimously adopted during a mass meeting of contributors Wednesday evening, November 7:

First: That the Christian Memorial Funds be used for the college education of the children of the late David A. Christian, III.

Second: Should the Christian Memorial Fund for some reason not be used for the education of the children of David A. Christian, III, then it is recommended that the fund be made available as a loan fund to medical, dental, or nursing students who are citizens of Appomattox County or adjoining counties.

Third: That the funds now on hand or that are later contributed be invested at the direction of the Board of Trustees in order that the funds might produce an income until such time that they are used as set forth in the first and second recommendation.

Dr. C. G. O'Brien, chairman of the Board of Directors, points out that an expression of the wishes of donors was necessary because of inadequacy of the funds collected for the original objective. Any donor, not concurring in the proposals of the Board of Directors as approved should call at the office of Dr. O'Brien or W. C. Dudley, treasurer, before December 1. (11-15-3t)

3-Day X-Ray Clinic Planned

If every person would learn the facts about tuberculosis and recognize his or her responsibility as a citizen to see that all known measures of prevention, of discovery of early cases, and the facilities that are functioning in the community are used, we might confidently look forward to the eradication of the dreaded disease within another generation.. That is the opinion of Dr. H. E. Jenkins, Health Director in Appomattox County.

Tuberculosis continues to be a major public health problem, said Dr. Jenkins, in announcing final plans for the diagnostic x-ray clinic to be held the latter part of November.

Control of tuberculosis, he pointed out, depends basically on earlier diagnosis of the positive case, thereby lessening the possibility of "open" cases who are responsible for the spread of the disease.

The x-ray examination is an important diagnostic facility in the case finding program. It, therefore, becomes evident that where tuberculosis is suspected, or an "open" case is known in a family group, every member should be x-rayed.

These clinics are for the purpose of checking on the progress of all contacts, suspected, arrested, and active cases of tuberculosis in Appomattox County.

A written request for these examinations must be obtained from the physician of the person to be examined.

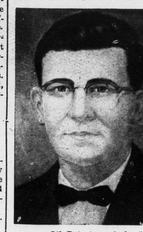
Applications should be filed with the local county nurse for a clinic appointment well in advance of the clinic. Only a limited number of persons can be examined and x-rayed in these clinics, hence appointments made prior to the clinic date are imperative to obtain this service.

The clinics will be held at the Appomattox Health Department on November 26, 27, and 28, 1956.

Any information desired regarding these clinics may be obtained by calling the local health office.

It can not be too strongly emphasized that tuberculosis is a contact disease, and that everyone living in homes where a case of tuberculosis exists should be x-rayed.

To Unveil Portrait of Dr. D. A. Christian III on November 23



. . . . Oil Painting of the Late Dr. D. A. Christian, III

An oil portrait of the late Dr. David A. Christian, III, will be unveiled in the Appomattox County Court House at 2:00 P. M., Friday, November 23.

The following tribute to the late physician was written by a friend:

"Future generations, who could not have known him, will gaze upon this portrait and ask this question: 'Who was this young man?' The most complete answer possible to that question is and will be, 'He was a Christian.'

"A Christian in name long dear to the citizens of this community; the fourth generation of these Christian public servants consisting of three physicians and a judge. A large volume could be written about the tireless, generous and compassionate public services rendered by each of these four men without scratching the surface of their numerous good deeds.

"This well-named young man had many characteristics of 'The Great Physician.' He knew his purpose in life before he could properly pronounce the word 'Doctor.' He never wavered from his dream of serving his home community, although at the completion of his long and costly training he was offered several more lucrative positions. He jokingly remarked that his famous trip to the top of the town water tank at a very early age was to see where he would practice. The word fear was not in his vocabulary and the look of fear never crossed his face. When warned by his loving father of taking chances in situations of violence, he replied that he had never harmed anyone purposely and could see no reason why anyone would harm him. His gratitude and sense of duty were expressed in many ways. The U. S. Navy had provided several years of his formal education, so when he felt that he was needed, he quickly volunteered his services. If all our personal experiences regarding his inflexible fidelity to his trust and his oath, his constant physical, mental, and moral services to all he met, and his many kind virtues were related in print, the volume would be large indeed. He was liked by all—loved by many!

"If such a book were compiled and published, we who knew him would not doubt that such a man did live among us; and we are most thankful for the privilege of having known one so great.

"Yes, Posterity, such a man did live a full and useful Christian life among us in a short space of time. That man was David A. Christian, III."

—"One Who Knew."

The Blue Hornets who had played well all season still ended the year in excellent manner, and 1956 will go into the record as one of the top football years at A. H. S. The Blue Hornets lost to Basset, 7 to 0, in a well - played game. A. H. S. lost out on three scoring chances and were held scoreless for the first time of the year. Terry Tucker, a very small but fast tailback for Basset made the only score of the night on a beautiful 80-yard run, Arnold Whitehead, who was a little faster, caught Tucker on the 7, but Basset went on to score from there. Co-captains Tommie O'Brien and John Pauelte played well defensively for Appomattox. Seniors, who were playing their final football game at A. H. S. were: Jack Caldwell, John Pauelte, Tommie O'Brien, Buddy Poe, Fountain Conner, Joe Fuller, James Carter, Bradley Babcock, and Sam Kerr.

Coach Gordon Bragg congratulated his squad on its 8—1 record.

The Junior Varsity remains undefeated, but has four ties in a row. They tied Nelson County, in a 6 to 6 game. Gene Beard, regular Nelson fullback, scored for the Nelson County team, and Ronnie Mann, a freshman, scored for the A. H. S. Junior Varsity. The J. V. record is now 2 wins and 4 ties for the season. They played the V. E. S. Junior Varsity Wednesday.

NEW BOOK IN THE COUNTY LIBRARY

Captain Rebel, by Frank Yerby.

This is the story of the daring exploits of the Confederate blockade runners. Tyler Meredith is Mr. Yerby's rebel captain—a rebel against the United States as he runs guns and supplies for the Confederacy. But Captain Meredith is also a rebel to the depths of his soul. He has no use for the church in which his brother, Joe, is a preacher, yet in time of crisis, he proves to be a truly religious man. He is one Southerner who does not believe one Reb is worthy a dozen Yanks—and he endangers his trying to teach his comrades that stern lesson. The action of Captain Rebel ranges from New Orleans to London, from Baltimore to Nassau, and from the calm of Southern drawing rooms to battles on land and on sea, where the ghost-gray blockade runners risk death itself in their race with the cruisers of the Yankee fleet.

Sportsmen in Virginia are eagerly awaiting sunrise next Monday, November 19, for the opening of the general hunting season. Many nimrods are hopeful that this will turn out to be the best overall season in a number of years.

Reports indicate that with the one exception of wild turkey, game will be in plentiful supply for this season. The deer population has increased in recent years, and there has been a steadily mounting interest in deer hunting. Hunt clubs now blanket the area, and organized hunts have largely replaced single-shot expeditions into the woods.

Quail hunting may make a comeback after a number of lean years. There are reports, however, of widness on the part of quail, and unwillingness to hold for the dogs. This tends to make shooting spotty.

Squirrel hunters are looking forward to a good season, as the bushy-tailed game is said to be in sizeable supply. Rabbits, which furnish sport for a large number of sportsmen, can be found in fair abundance in most woods and fields., but a growing quanity of foxes has cut into the rabbit population in other spots.

Pre-season scouting trips in an effort to line up likely hunting spots has been a popular pastime for sportsmen this week. Others have taken full advantage of the duck hunting season, which opened Nov. 7, to get in some early shooting.

The sale of hunting permits has been brisk.

Hunters are reminded to check on bag limits for their area, and to secure written permission from landowners before hunting on their property.

Big Game Checking Stations

The law requires that all bear, deer and wild turkeys be reported and tagged at game checking stations during the coming hunting season. D. A. Conner, Sr., Warden of Appomattox County has pointed out. Tags will be furnished only at the checking stations.

Checking stations in Appomattox County will be established at:

B. C. Rogers Store, Oakville

M. A. Bookers Filling Station, Gladstone

R. R. Bryant's Esso Station, Vera

H. W. Harvey's Mill, Concord

J. R. Hamilton's Store, Evergreen

Williams & Ramsey Store, Pamplin

Hunter Dickerson's Store, Appomattox

J. E. Herndon's Store, Stonewall

E. Dan Wooldridge, Pumplin, home at Hurvville.

Reception For Local Teachers

The American Legion Auxiliary, Unit 104, gave an informal reception for the Appomattox County teachers on Tuesday, November 13 at 9:00 P. M. in the American Legion Home. Members of American Legion Post 104 were also invited guests. Corsages and boutonnaires were given to each of the guests. Miss Peggy Godsey rendered music during the evening. Mrs. Clifford Harvey, president of Unit 104 Auxiliary, served punch and those who assisted were: Mrs. Martin Webb, Mrs. R. D. Robinson, Mrs. F. F. Carter, Mrs. Joel W. Flood, Mrs. Peyton Harvey, Mrs. E. T. Bruce, Mrs. Aubrey Dosa, Mrs. Shearer Robertson, Mrs. Ivey Heiland, Mrs. T. E. Dickerson and Mrs. Hunter Dickerson.

Mrs. R. D. Robinson, Auxiliary 104 vice-president, was in charge of decorations, and all members of Unit 104 served on the refreshment committee.

4th IS ONLY DISTRICT TO GO DEMOCRATIC

The Fourth Congressional District was the only Virginia district to vote Democratic in the recent Presidential election. Reports at one time during the count, had the Fourth going for Eisenhower, but the final tally showed a total vote of approximately 200 for Stevenson. The latest unofficial count for the state showed: Eisenhower, 387,641; Stevenson, 256,553, with another 41,482 going to T. Coleman Andrews.
